The rich sound of bluegrass is here to launch the Indoor Season at the Yucaipa Performing Arts Center (YPAC) on October 3 at 8PM. With vibrant tones filled with punch and emotion, the GRAMMY-nominated, all-female string band Della Mae will enliven Historic Uptown Yucaipa with the toe-tapping blend of soulful roots-based folk music and contemporary influences of the present day.

Together, lead vocalist and guitarist Celia Woodsmith, along with two-time national champion fiddle player Kimber Ludiker, mandolinist Jenni Lyn Gardner, and upright bassist Zoe Guigueno, continue to gather audiences of all ages and musical interests.

Since their founding in 2009, Della Mae has played their original music in 30 countries and almost all of the United States. Extensive time touring helped the band realize their greater mission: to showcase top female musicians and to improve opportunities for women and girls through advocacy, mentorship, programming, and performance.

“At the Yucaipa Performing Arts Center we are excited to bring entertainment to the community that connects people through a wide range of artistic styles.” said Anna Cross, YPAC Manager. “We are sure the soulful, home-town feel of artists like Della Mae will contribute to the success of our brand-new venue. It is an honor to be able to start off on such a high note with these incredible women.”

This year, the Nashville-based band toured with original Della Mae guitarist Avril Smith and GRAMMY-winning banjo player Alison Brown, who is featured on their new recording The Butcher Shoppe EP. The album features two original songs, “Bourbon Hound,” written by lead singer Celia Woodsmith, and “No-See-Um Stomp,” written by Kimber Ludiker, which features a fan-favorite “twin guitar” interlude. Fans continue to request their other popular songs, “Sixteen Tons” and “Whipping Post” at their live performances.
